

ZWP Board of Directors Biographies

Andy Hart – President of the Board of Directors

Andy Hart is married and has four children. He farms with his father on their family farm near Potsdam in Olmsted County. He is an Olmsted County SWCD Supervisor for district 5, which includes Farmington, Oronoco, Kalmar and New Haven Townships. Andy has been involved with conservation issues for many years. On their farm they have several conservation practices including waterways, terraces, cover crops, minimum and no-till farming practices. Andy believes the Zumbro Watershed Partnership is a great organization that will make a difference in our watershed for both urban and rural people living in the watershed.

Ron Fuller – Secretary of the Board of Directors

Ron Fuller is a retired software engineer (36+ years at IBM). He is married, has four (grown) children, lives on Lake Zumbro and is concerned with the water quality that we are passing on to the next generation. Among his hobbies are biking (pedal and motorized), fishing and boating.

Judy Ohly – Olmsted County Commissioner Representative

Judy was raised on a farm in Northern Minnesota and moved to Rochester in 1978. Starting out in real estate banking, she soon realized that a Realtor was what she wanted to be. In 1982 she got her license and has been involved in real estate ever since. Judy is married to Lou Ohly Jr. and they have 3 children. In 2000 they moved to a home North of town on the Zumbro River. That is when her interest in water quality started. She has been involved in the Zumbro Watershed Partnership from the beginning and currently serves as the Olmsted County Commissioner Representative on the Board of Directors. Judy was elected Olmsted County Commissioner for District 7 in 2004.

Dan Schaub – Citizen Director

My Wife, Kim Nickander, and I have lived on Lake Zumbro for about 11 years. We have four (grown) children and 2 granddaughters. We enjoy canoeing and fishing on the Zumbro River. Other hobbies of mine include Hunting, Boating, Snowmobiling and Scuba. I have been employed with FEI Company for 27 years and presently hold the position of Field Service Supervisor in the Electron Optics division. I am a member of the Lake Zumbro Improvement Association, the Lake Restoration Committee, Lake Zumbro Forever, Inc. and I look forward to working with the Zumbro Watershed Partnership to improve the water quality in the entire watershed for future generations.
